IT WAS A SURPRISE TO MANY PEOPLE-THE COUPLE AT MANHATTAN BEACH.

Why the marriage of William George Tiffany and Mrs. Mary Virginia Yanaga, which took place at the Albemarle Hotel on Saturday, should have been conducted with so much secreey was puzzling to the majority of people in society when they came to hear of it yesterday. So careful were the principals that the affair should be a secret, that even the alert manager of the Albemarie, Mr. Parker, was unaware of it ntil late in the day, although the Rev. Dr. Daniel C. Potter, of the Bartist Tabernacle, united the distinguished pair at 11 o'clock in the forenoon in Mrs. Yznaga's parier, No. 54. The principal reason for celebrating the nuprials in such an extremely quiet way is supposed by Mrs. Yznaga's friends to be due disinclination to attract public attention so on after her divorce from Fernando A. Yznaga, which was granted to her in San Francisco less than six months ago.

Mr. Parker, in reference to the wedding, said yester day: "As I was not requested to keep stient I assume that I am not violating any confidence in telling what I know about it. Mrs. Yznaga arrived here with her maid on Tuesday, and was assigned to her old suite of rooms, Nos. 54, 55 and 56. Her sister, Mrs. William K. Vanderblit, has been with her a good deal since, and Mr. Tiffany was a frequent caller. When Mr. Vanderblit came in, about half past IO, on Saturday morning and sent up his card to No. 54, Mr. Tiffany was walking back and forth in front of the office-desk. Neither gentleman seemed to recognize the other, indicating that they had not met recently. Just as Mr. Vanderblit was about to step upon the elevator it seemed to flash through the head of each who the other was, and after a murual handshaking they went upstairs together. Soon after, Colonel William Jay arrived carrying a package of papers, supposed to contain the evidence of the bride's legal divorce, and was shown up to Mrs. Yznaga's parlor. I did not see Dr. Potter, but I suppose he came, too, if he performed the ceremony, Mrs. Tiffany pald her bill by check, signed M. V. Yznaga, about half past 12, and Mr. Tiffany's baggage, which in the meantime had come here, was sent with his wife's to Manhattan Beach. They left the hotel in a quiet way before 1 o'clock."

The only persons present at the ceremony besides those already montioned were Mrs. II. B. Hollins, Frederick W. Vanderblit and President J. Hampden Robb, of the Department of Public Parks.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany spent the day quietly at Manhattan Beach vesterlay. It was said there that they would remain at the hotel for two weeks, it is said that Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany will sail for Europe soon and will remain abroad until fail. On their return they will make their home in San Francisco, where Mr. Tiffany has lived for several years. The hridegroom was born in Baltimore and has spent much of his time in Europe. As manager of the famous Esmeralda Mining Company it is understood that he has acquired a fortune of two millions. As he was regar fay: "As I was not requested to keep silent I assume that I am not violating any confidence in telling what

THE MOON'S FACE HIDDEN.

MANY PROPLE WATCH THE TOTAL ECLIPSE-THE EXHIBITION A COMPLETE SUCCESS.

Lest night was clear, the stars shone out and people who were awake and observant between the hours of 12 and 2 witnessed the second total eclipse of the moon which has taken place during the year 1888. The Calculating astronomers announced beforehand to the public and a fribune reporter that the moon would pass through her various phases at certain moments of time. If any errors were discovered in the given figures it must have been by the same calculating astropomers, for to the unastronomical person with eve turned heavenward the foretold time was exact enough please the most punctual observer.

Housetops were filled with whole families; the peering upward and the streets were full of many, who and parallaxes, still felt an eager curiosity to see the temporary extinguishment of Nature's night-lamp. Every one, from the astronomer in his observatory counting every moment valuable, breathlessly transfer ring the results of his observations to paper, to the youthful pair who were out for a walk in the floods of er favorite moonlight, gave up earthly pursuits for this truly heavenly one.

Scientists speak of some obstructive medium in the surrounding ether which prevents completely the refraction of the sun's rays at the time of an eclipse, so as to render the moon's disk entirely the visible, until its expiration. The existence of such an obstruction has only been demonstrated since the valuate cruption which logan in the island of Krakatoa in the Krakatoa of the complete the valuation. In the Straits of Sunda, going on to chormous terrestrial convulsions, submerging many islands, raising others, and throwing up vast showers of terrestrial dust into surrounding space. To this floating mass of fine particles astronomers ascribe the total invisibility of the moon during the two collipses which took place in the following year, 1884. In January of this year the disk presented an appearance quite similar to that which bad been observed provious to the Krakatoa cruption—that is, the outlines of her surface remained well defined, while the usual reflection of the sun's rays was interrupted. Last night the surface was at no time invisible, but presented, even when totally collipsed, a copper-colored appearance.

GAY CROWDS AT CONEY ISLAND.

NOT DETERRED BY THREATENING WEATHER

THE HOTELS REAP A RICH HARVEST.

Threatening skies and a dash of rain arrested the began in the morning with an impetus that bade fair hotel-keepers. As it was, in spite of all drawbacks the crowds were immense. Some waited for the clouds to roll by, but few gave up entirely the excursion planned for the day.

The favorite all-water route of the Iron Steamboat Company was patronized to such an extent as to make it a subject of congratulation with the passengers that there was something in the skies to keep a few thousands at home. Manhattan Beach was so thronged that the overflow threatened to interfere with the exclusiveness of the stately Oriental Hotel.

At the Brighton Beach Hotel the plazzas and music halls were thronged.

At the west end of the island all the shows did a big business, and allogsther it was a fairly profitable day business, and altogether it was a fairly profitable day for all on the island.

GETTING THE MUSEUM READY.

An application has been made by President Robb, of the Park Department, to the Board of Apportion-ment, for money to complete the approaches to the Museum of Art in Central Park. The plans have been made for the work by Mr. Vaux, and everything is now ready for the contracts to be let. The work on the new building goes on rapidly. A force of 200 carpenters and plasterers are busy, and the contracts for the cabinet work have all been let. In the Museum General di Cesnola is directing the preparation for the exhibits, which are to be placed in the new building as soon as it is ready. The day set for the opening is November 27.

THE THIRTEENTH ON SUNDAY.

A CROWD TO HEAR CHAPLAIN TALMAGE. MILITARY DUTIES OF THE DAY SUCCESSFULLY PER-

FORMED-ON PARADE IN WHITE TROUSERS. State Camp, Peekskill, N. Y., July 22.-This was a red letter day for Brooklyn's gallant 13th Regiment. It was their first full day in camp in three years, but the place has every appearance of being occupied by old veterans. Long before reveille sounded this morning a great many of the men were up, putting their tents in order, and when Old Sol climbed over the river bluff he was greeted by the whole regiment. The officers were introduced to Governor Hill yesterday before he left camp, after having reviewed the 69th Regiment. The Governor also stayed until after dress parade, which passed off smoothly, and the manual of arms was gone through with that "snap" which so well becomes a body of Adjutant Russell Benedict became slightly flurried and forgot to call for the reports from the first sergeants, and was promptly made aware of the omission by Colonel Austen. In the evening the band gave a concert on the parade ground. Frederick N. Innes, the new bandmaster of the regiment, picked up a trombone and gave several solos. He was loudly applauded and was obliged to repeat each one.

The 13th has departed from the conventional method of performing guard duty, and instead of men from all of the companies being detailed each day, one entire company takes that responsibility. Company G was detailed for guard duty to-day and its captain, William L. Watson, was officer of the day. First Lieutenant William A. Brown, of Company E. and Second Lieutenant Henry Tinker, of Company I. were the officers of the guard. Company G was detailed the first day on account of being the largest company in the regiment. The others will take their turns according to their numerical strength. Long before the time announced for Chaplain Talmage to speak, the visitors began to arrive in crowds from Peekskill and the surrounding country. The meeting was held in the large tent belonging to the Young Men's Christian Association. The theme of the sermon was "Uses of Stratagem." The majority of the visitors stayed all the afternoon and until after dress parade in the evening. The men in their white trousers made a fine appearance. Chaplain Talmage appeared on dress parade to-night. He evidently forgot his white gloves, and while the regiment was at parade rest he was struggling to get them on, much to the amusement of some of the spectators.

Colonel Austen believes in taking time by the forelock, so when he saw some members of Company K getting mixed up rather promisenously with a crowd of good-looking visitors, he ordered an outpost established at the foot of the stairs leading to the Peckskill ferry. The post is in charge of Lieutenant C. G. Tinker, and under him are Sergeant Crawford, Corporals A. A. Hayward and H. M. Wheeler, and six privates.

porals A. A. Hayward and H. M. Wheeler, and six privates.

Rumor has it that the State officers are not pleased with the general tone of the newspaper reports of the camp. They think the pranks of the boys have been made too conspicuous, for the reason that the county members of the Legislature will be unwilling to make appropriations for continuing the camp after reading such reports. The members, if there should be any to make such objections, would do well to spend one day at the camp and go through the drill that the men do for one morning and there would be no more heard about the men who go to the camp not earning their money. Colonel Austen is a Democrat, but at least four-fifths of his command are Republicans, and Tribunes were in so great request today that the supply ran out long before the demand was satisfied.

A QUIET DAY FOR HARRISON.

AT CHURCH IN THE MORNING -VISITED BY M. H.

DE YOUNG AND R. C. KEBENS. Indianapolis, July 22 (Special).-The only interruption to-day of the reverential quiet that has always prevailed in the Harrison household on Sunday was used by calls in the afternoon by Michael H. De Young, Editor of "The San Francisco Chronicle," and way from the East, where he has been spending his time since the Chicago Convention, to California, and he stopped in Indianapelis for the purpose of having a talk with General Harrison before going home. He thinks that General Harrison will be as strong on the Pacific Coast as any candidate who could have been nominated, and says confidently that there is no doubt of the Republicans carrying California and Oregon. Mr. Kerons called solely for the purpose of paying his respects to General Harrison. He is on his way to New-York to attend the Blaine demonstration. His customary attendance at church this morning and a long walk this evening were the only incidents of the day with the General. way from the East, where he has been spending his

A LETTER FROM THE NEXT PRESIDENT.

IRISH-AMERICANS ENCOURAGED TO GREATER EFFORTS IN ORGANIZATION.

The most successful meeting which the central organization of the Irish-American Anti-Free-Trade League has yet held was that of last evening at No 225 East Thirty-sixth-st. P. H. McNamee presided and before the regular business of the meeting had begun the secretary, J. F. McCarthy, was kept busy with the enrolment of a large number of new mem-bers and receiving the reports of the presidents of the various clubs, who had velcome intelligence to give in relation to the admission of new members in the

A spacious and comfortable headquarters has been obtained at Science Hall, No. 141 Eighth-st., and is being fitted up and will be ready for occupancy this week. Members of the central organization of the League will be placed in charge of the headquarrs, which will be opened at all seasonable hours both night and day, for the distribution of tracts and other campaign literature to the representatives of the various Irish-American organizations, not alone in this, but in neighboring cities. Among the speakers were Patrick Wall, who has organized a branch of the League in the XVIIIth Assembly District; Delegate Daniel Cook, an iron-mouller; Delegate David Flynn, and Chairman McNamee, who stated that this revolt from Democracy by Irish-Americans was creating widespread interest among their countrymen in other cities, and instanced Buffalo, Newark, J. City, Haverstraw, Philadelphia and other centres "from each of which," he said, "I have received letters from leading Irishmen, asking for advice as to the formation of anti-free-trade clubs." (Applause.) Ex-Judge A. L. Morrison, as chairman of the Execu-tive Committee, presided at the meeting of that body, which was held subsequently. Mr. Morrison, who has done the heaviest part of the work in organizing the League, has just returned from a brief visit to New-Mexico. While there he received the following letter from General Harrison, the reading of which | prowas greeted with applause: Indianapolis, Ind., July 3, 188 My Dear Sir: Your letter of June 27, from Santa Fe, N. M., received. Permit me to sincerely thank you for carnest words of congratulation and encouragement which it contains. I have heard of the work being done by you and your clubs in New-York City, and most sincerely commend it. Commencing as it did in the inter-campaign season and before any candidates were nominated to the commencing as it did in the inter-campaign season and before any candidates were nominated to the control of the control o nated, it is itself an evidence that the men who have joined the clubs are actuated by an earnest desire that the principles of the Republican party should triumph. I am glad, indeed, to hear from you that the work has been so successful, and sincerely hope that your labors and the labors of those associated with you may meet with continued and greater success, for it is only by such efforts that we may hope for the restoration of our party to power. Yours very truly, BENJAMIN HARRISON.

POPULAR OBSERVATIONS.

RECALLING THE CAMPAIGN OF 1840. A WHIG STANZA-THE CURIOUS GAME OF POLL TICS PLAYED BY SOUTHERN BOYS.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: Reminiscences of the campaign of 1840 published from time to time in the Tribune remind me also of that period. I was then a boy of nine years, living in Georgia. I recollect the "barba-cues," which in that section and at that period it was the custom of both the Whig and the Democratic parties to give in connection with political meetings. They were what might be called political picnics. Living in the city of Savannah, I recollect one tha was held in a grove near the town. Long. rudely built tables were erected, on which after the address-cs had been made from a hastily built restrum all who wished were fed with bounteous supplies, which usually included beeves, hogs, etc., roasted whole before immense out-of-door fires. That table, or portion of the common table, where the speakers and most notable of the company ate, was usually supplied with wine, and I shall always remember that it was at one of these old political gatherings that I was first permitted to taste Madeira wine, which was at that time one of the most fashionable wines, but since greatly deteriorated, and is now seldom heard

I also recollect hearing the campaign songs of 1840. It seems to me that such songs were then more popular. There were more of them, and they were more frequently sung than campaign songs are nowadays. But I remember of them only one stanza-or perhaps it was only a part of a stanzawhich I have not seen mentioned among those recently recalled and reprinted. It ran thus: Oh, Matty Van is a man of doubt;

He wires in, he wires out: He's not the people's candidate, oh! They've dropped him like a hot potato!

Another thing I wish to allude to. It emphasizes the proverb "The child is father to the man." The boys of Savannah, from the smallest to the youth who was barely too young to vote, were thoroughly organized as partisans upon one side or the other. The city was divided into districts, or precinctswhat they were termed I do not remember—and in each a voting place was provided. Whether these divisions were identical with those of the real voting precincts. I cannot tell: but great energy and bringing them into the polling places and seeing them vote the right ticket, and in guarding against their being seduced by promises or threats by the their being seduced by promises or threats by the opposite party. In short, the game of polities was played by the boys in close imitation of the real came by the men and with no less shrewdness and energy. Is it any wonder that the Southerners are born noliticians? Our Northern boys have no lack of games and sports, but I never knew them to play at politics, or, rather, partisanship, for of course that is what it was. As I remember the proceedings at at pointes, or, rather, partisagiship, for of course that is what it was. As I remember the proceedings at these juvenile polls, everything was done decently and in order, with no levity and boyish hilarity, but with all seriousness, and I was greatly impressed with its importance, though not of an age to understand exactly what it meant or what was the use of it all.

Though—to use a Southern phrase—I was "raised"
Though—to use a Southern phrase—I was "raised"
Though—to use a Southern phrase—I was "raised" at the South. I have always voted the Republican ticket, and cannot but hope that the grandson of "old Tippecanoe" will defeat his opponent as the grandfather did "Matty Van."

HARRISON DEMOCRATS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Tothe Editor of the Tribune. Sir: It might seem useless, perhaps, to take notice of any political changes in any town or village in this Keystone State, in view of her large Republican majorbut some of the recent accessions to our party from the Democratic camp are exciting much comment. During last week the old soldiers who fought for the old flag organized a Harrison and Morton club, and, to use their language, they are going to vote as they shot. Among the 142 veterans who enrolled their names upon the list was Samuel J. Breth, who was the last Mayor of this city. He was from early manhood a Democrat, and only went out of the city's executive chair in last April. Charles L. Fettinger, a candidate on the Democratic ticket at our last municipal election, has also enlisted under the Harrison and Morton banner. An ex-chief of police, Silas A. McGough, a life-long Democrat, is another acquisition to our ranks. These men are all old solders and prominent citizens. The bandanna is feebly waving, but the grand old flag is on the topmast. The Veteran Club, with its 142 members, will do much solid work for the titlet. This was the preliminary meeting, and the grand old flag is on the topmast. The Veteran Club, with fis 142 members, will do much solid work for the ticket. This was the prelimbary meeting, and by the time the next meeting comes the number will be greatly augmented. Why don't the old soldiers who are Democrats organize! There are not enough of them. Altoona, Penn. July 16, 1888.

DEMOCRATS WHOM FREE TRADE HITS HARD. To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: Democrats in Franklin and Essex Countles are in a situation which is amusing to an outside observer. Iron furnaces and ore mining furnish employment here for thousands. Free trade threats from Washinging to-day the object of which was to take action on turn tend to paralyze the chief industry of the region. Workingmen and that those in the meeting represented about 30,000 | their hundreds of thousands of dollars at stake, realize to support Cleveland, but he cannot aid a free trade to support Cleveland, but he cannot ald a free trade policy. Mr. Weed is one of the "king pins" of the region, and his desire to protect his business and at the same time to help elect Mr. Cleveland causes no little comment. Mr. Weed, it is said, holds that he feels unable to meet the outcome of a policy which will certainly wreck an iron business now furnishing nine-tenths of a certain class of metal produced in this country. Among Democrats in this vicinity there is an intense and growing opposition to the proposals of the free traders. Idle blast furnaces and laborers' empty houses already betoken the injury arising from the uncertainty of the Administration's policy. Respectfully, M. Y. B. Flattsburg, July 10, 1888.

Plattsburg, July 10, 1888. AN ODD CHURCH IN MICHIGAN.

To the Editor of The Iribune. Sir: While with some of my relatives here in Michi gan, last Sunday afternoon, attending the funeral of an old citizen of the town, and patiently awaiting the beginning of the service at the church, my attention was called to a tablet of marble inserted in the wall directly over the pulpit. Here is a true copy of the inscription on it: "This is to certify that no minister belonging to any secret society, or has his life insured, or reads his sermons, or does not kneel in prayer, shall be allowed to preach in this House of God. The Lord of Hosts is Judge."

On the front wall of the same building, outside, is the following tablet: "House of God. Look unto me the following tablet: "House of God. Look unto me all ye ends of the earth, and be ye saved, and go to glory. Amen and amon, 1871."

Is the author of that edlet, I solloquized, and the owner of the church, indeed the Vicezerent of Almighty God. At least, I was much amused at his ecceptricity, not to mention his Luther-like courage and fint-like faith in the nailing his thesis to both the inner and outer walls of the sanctuary.

JAMES MILLER.

Ida, Monroe County, Mich., June 27, 1888.

CONSISTENT PARTY EMBLEMS. To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: The fiery Communist emblem-the "Red Ban danna"-adopted by the Democratic party as its battleflag, is an appropriate selection. The manufacture of bandanna handkerchiefs is an extensive one in Great Britain, and it is entirely consistent with the Free Trade policy that Cleveland and his party should use this emblem as a snub to American industry. The Stars and Stripes are manufactured chiefly in the United States, and those who vote for Republican principles have always afforded that flag the greatest protection. New-York, July 16, 1888.

DEMOCRATS WHO WILL SUPPORT HARRISON: To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: I have been noticing with pleasure that many former Republican supporters of Cleveland have decided to come back to the support of the Republican nominees this year. My father, three brothers and myself, making five votes in all, will support Harrison. We have all grown tired of Cleveland and his promises. Two friends of mine, formerly Cleveland men, Albert and Richard Stahl, of No. 60 First-st., have also announced themselves in favor of the winning ticket. Richard Stahl is collector for the Retail Grocers' Union. Respectfully.

Samuel Waters, accompanied by Charles Somers and George Shephard, all of Brooklyn, yesterday visited Rockaway Beach. The three men went in bathing at Wainwright and Smith's Seaside House. They had been in the surf but a short time when Waters, who was a considerable distance from his companions, being a good swimmer, suddenly threw up his hands and shouted for help. His companions started to go to his assistance, but he was drowned before they could reach him. It is supposed that he was seized with cramps. KILLED BY THE EXPLOSION OF A BOILER. St. Louis, Mo., July 22.-Information comes from Zion, Kentucky, near Henderson, of a fatal boiler explosion at the coal shafts of Williams & Moss. David Stone, the engineer, and Moses Hashins, fireman, were instantly killed, and "Fred" Williams, Frank Throop and Alexander Longnecker were badly scalard. The two latter will die.

A PERSISTENT SUICIDE.

AN UNKNOWN MAN JUMPS INTO THE WATER TWICE AT CONEY ISLAND. A sigular drowning case occurred yesterday after-noon at the West End Fishing Station at Coney Island. At 12:30 p. m. A. Anderson, of No. 164 Forty-thirdst., Brooklyn, Hugo Wurn, of No. 125 Third-ave., Brooklyn, Paul Alonzo, of No. 57 Cheever-place, and an unknown man hired a boat at the West End Boat House to go fishing. The party had been drinking considerably and all of the men were more or less nder the influence of liquor when they hired the boat, The men rowed to the channel at Coney Island Point, opposite Stillwell's Hotel. When the boat arrived opposite the point the unknown man stood up in the boat and without a word of warning to his companions jumped overboard. His companions pulled him into the boat again. They then pulled back to the shore, where the man began Jaking off his wet clothes, as his companions thought, to dry them in the sun. He then jumped into the water for the second time. The water where he jumped was shallow. The other men called for him to swim for the boat, but he made no effort to do so. One of his companions then shouted to him to swim to the shore. They had turned a bend in the creek when they heard a scream. They immediately pulled out again, but found that the man had disappeared. They searched about the water, but could not find any trace of the body.

The men then went ashore and reported the cas at Police Headquarters and made a statement to Chief McKane in accordance with the above. They turned over the drowned man's clothing to the police. Chief McKane held the men while he, in company with Judge Werring and some officers, went to the the accident, but they could not find the body, nor any one who saw the man will be buried in New-Brunswick jump into the water. Chief McKane returned to jump into the water. Chief McKane returned to Headquarters and told the three men that he would have to hold them until it was shown that they had nothing to do with the man's death. The chief thought it possible that there might have been a fight between the men and that the man was thrown overboard. The men were accordingly held until this morning, when a further examination will be made.

Anderson is a saloon keeper in Brooklyn, and when asked where he met the unknown man, said: "He has frequently been in my saloon and came in on Saturdan hight, when I asked him if he did not want to go fishing with me to-day. He said 'Yes.' This morning he came to the saloon and met me and my companions and we came down to Coney Island. I do not know his name nor where he lived."

Chief McKane, upon examining the clothes of the missing man, found in his pocket a bank book, a pack of cards, some tobacce, and a pay envelope from Ridley & Sons, New-York. Upon the envelope was marked in lead penell. "Mr. Fulmann, $84.1." It is suppessed that the man's name was Fulmann and that he was employed by Ridley & Sons. A search will be made this morning for the body at low tide.

THE RACE CONFLICT IN ARKANSAS.

FORTY PERSONS INDICTED IN CRITTENDEN

COUNTY. St. Louis, Mo., July 22.-Information has been received from Crittenden County, Ark., to the effect that the Grand Jury, which has been investigating the panishment of eighteen negroes by an armed organiza tion, has made its report. The result is the return of nearly forty indictments. The Grand Jury found that anonymous notes had been sent to a number of white men by negroes giving the whites five days to leave Upon receiving the threatening epistles, the whites met, armed and escorted out of the country the negroes implicated. Among those who receive orders to quit the country within five days were J. F. the leading merchant of Marion; Sheriff W. F. Warner, of Crittenden County J. H. Stevens, a blacksmith; L. P. Berr lawyer, and S. O. Mosby, a former magistrate Berry Marion. THE FIRE RECORD.

A COSTLY FIREWORKS EXHIBITION an early hour yesterday morning the residents of Main-st., Sinstartled by three loud Sing Sing, were explosions rapid succession, resembling the firing of a cannon. Many citizens hurriedly came out of their houses manufactory of Abraham Jones, in Main-st. There also occurred a pyrotechnic display, sky-rockets and roman candles shooting in all directions, causing a stampede among the crowd that collected in front tian cottagers at fered with by the explosions that occurred in the burning building from time to time. The building, before the flames were extinguished. The second before the flames were extinguished. The second floor was occupied by the owner, Stephen Ayles, and his family, who all escaped without injuries. The third floor was occupied by an Odd Fellows' Lodge as a meeting room. The fire originated in the gun shop by the explosion of a kerosene lamp. The loss on stock is about $3,000, fully covered by insurance. The other losses will not exceed $2,000.

MUST CLERKS PAY BUREAU BLUNDERS!

Washington, July 22 (Special).-The Supervising Architect of the Treasury found about three months ago that the annual appropriation for his clerical and technical force would fall short about $4,000 of the sum required to meet the call of the pay rolls up to July 1, 1888. It was decided to make up the deficiencies by temporarily reducing the salaries. Accordingly, from one half to one dollar a day was taken from the pay of all employes in his office getting over $3 a day, but with the tacit understanding (though not so expressed under seal) that this reduction would con-tinue only three months, when the new appropriation would be available, July 1, 1888, and the salaries re-stored. In other words, the clerks were requested to contribute so much from their pockets to help the office out of its blunder and avoid a deficiency. Under the circumstances the clerks quietly submitted to the tax, not dreaming but that on July 1, 1888, they would

It is now contended that, owing to the office having been placed under the Civil Service rules by the President on July 1, it will not be possible to restore the clerks, as they are to be classified, and according to the aries they are now receiving, and not according to what they received three and a half months ago. what they received three and a half months ago. It is manifest that the cause of the reduction was not the fault of those who suffer. Why, then, should they have to hear the consequences? Will the President who created and issued the order putting the Architects office within the pale of Civil Service rules, allow such gross injustice to be done the cierks of said bureau, simply because an incompetent bureau chief mismanaged the affairs of his bureau!

BUILDING RIVAL LINES TO COEU R D'ALENE. St. Paul, July 22 (Special).—One of the sharpest rivalries noted in the railroad world for years is the mpetition now in progress in the Coeur d'Alene country and Montana and Idaho, where the North Pacific and Oregon Rallway and Navigation companies are putting forth their best efforts to get control. The Oregon Railway and Navigaion Company has let the contract for a branch from Farmington to Mullan, and is pushing the work with all possible rapidity. The Northern Pacific is pushing also a line into the mines. Fifteen hundred men are now at work on the two roads between Coeur d'Alene City and Mullan, and as a result much excitement prevails. Additional forces are being sent by the car load, and soon the country will be flooded with railroad workmen. There is no longer any doubt as to the intention of the Northern Pacific people. The original survey of the line was through Coeur d'Alene. This is the road that is now building, and it is generally believed that the main line east of Helena, Montana, will be abandoned some day for the route through Coeur d'Alene. As fast as men are brought in by the con-tractors of one road they are bought up and put to work on the competing line. Each company has been doing its best to harmonize conflicting interests, and the probability is that an agreement will soon be made dividing up the territory, and assuring each road of a share of the carrying trade of the mines.

Long leach, with its quietness and exclusivenes photograph galleries, popcorn stands, etc., is as at-tractive and popular with those who want undisturbed pleasures and comforts on the ocean's strand as it ever was. In fact, its popularity seems greater than ever, and it is not improbable that there will have to

One of his objects in going to England at this time was to read a paper before the British Association, and it was his and it was his intention to prosecute his geological

SUNDAY, SCHOOL WORKERS AT ASBURY PARK. Asbury Park, July 22 (Special).-This was the ninth day of the Sunday-school Assembly. The Rev. Dr. Henry A. Buttz preached the baccalaureate sermon at the Auditorium from Paul's words ; " I have kept the faith." "Paul," said he, " was a credible witness. He was near enough to the beginning of Christianity to know whereof he spoke. His prejudices were against Christianity, He lived thirty years after his con-version, and had ample time in which to judge of its He kept his faith through persecution, affliction, suffering and impresonment and under the care of all the churches. His ability was unquestioned. He gave to the church the key words of the clogy, such as justification and sanctification. He was the such as justification and sanctification. He was the great founder of Christian theology. From Paul's day to the present time thelogians have been expounders of Paul's teachings. He gasped the idea of a world-wid Christianity. His integrity was unquestioned. After all his sufferings, he was able to say: 'I have kept the faith.' We have to take much on faith. I would take Paul's testimony before any other. A faith that could command an intellect like Paul's, a life like his and his triumphant death convince men of the reality of Christianity."

The Hible-class and Sunday schools numbered twenty-one hundred. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held a service this afternoon. After the usual beach meeting a sermon was delivered by the Rev. Dr. C. J. Little, of Syracuse University.

A NEW SINAGOGUE DEDICATED AT LONG

BRANCH.

Long Branch, N. J., July 22 (Special).—The new Jewish synagogue, the House of Miriam, on North Bath-ave., the only synagogue on the New-Jersey coast, was formally dedicated this afternoon. building is a handsome frame structure. It was crowded to the doors and several hundred persons were unable to gain admittance. The dedication ceremonies were under the supervision of the Board of Trustees-J. M. Emanuel, president; Leopold Marks, vice-president; Charles Schwager, secretary; Louis Rothenburg, treasurer; J. Goldstein, B. Sussman and Rothenburg, treasurer; J. Goldstein, B. Sussman and F. W. Marks. Rabbi F. de Sola Mendes, of the synagogue in Forty-fourth-st., New-York, preached the English sermon. The Jewish dedicatory ceromonies were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Edward Kartsschmoroff. A well-trained choir from New-York rendered fine music. The officiating ciercymen were clad in the full vestments of the Jewish priesthood. The synagogue is worth with the lot about $25,000, and only $8,000 remains unpaid. About a third of the debt was pledged to-day. Many prominent Helvew and Christian cottagers attended the services.

HORSES INJURED BY NAILS IN THE STREETS.

From The Albany Journal.

The number of valuable horses injured in this city by stepping on nails in the streets is large. A lady called at this office a day or two ago and said that a Mr. Bishop, a resident of Edwards.t., had lost a valuable horse from lockjaw, the result of an injury received by stepping on a rusty nail. James McKune, an expressman, a few weeks since had a horse similarly injured, which rendered him unfit for use and from which the animal has not yet recovered. Another expressman, No. 18, had a horse badly hurt from the same cause, which necessitated his retirement from work for some time. If the clerks in the stores would use a little judgment when they open cases of goods on the sidewalk, and throw the nails eisewhere than on the street, a great deal of this sort of trouble would be obviated. WHAT AFFECTED THE MEAT.

WHAT AFFECTED THE MEAT.

From The Boston Transcript.

The Listener's friend Q has lately set up a household of his own, and Mrs. Q, is receiving much valuable advice relating to her housekeeping from the butchers, bakers and candlestickmakers with whom she deals. Having had some little difficulty in keeping her meats in this hot weather, she complained to her butcher, who said the fault wasn't in the meat, and then proceeded to tell her how to keep her meat in the refrigerator.

"You must put it on a plate, so," he said, "and then cover it over with another plate, so," cause it ain't so much a matter of air as it is of aimosphere."

This "atmosphere" bothered Mrs. Q, for awhile, but she finally decided that it was temperature the butcher meant.

"Willie," said the mother, as she washed the blood from his nose, "this is what you get for disobeying me. I have told you not to play with Bobby Stapleford. If you had beeded me you would not have got into any trouble with him. I should punish you seriously now if you were not so sorely punished already."

"Mother," replied Willie, majestically, as he glanced in a careless way at the contusions on his diminutive figure and get the slipper. You haven't seen Bob."

THE TRIBUNE IN THE CATSKILLS. Hotel Kaaterskill, N. Y., July 22 (Special).-The als has been delightful here to-day. The Tribune reached its numerous readers among the guests at this hotel at 9:40 a. m. to-day. The bundle was taken from the early Catskill Mountain train at Palenville and was hurried up the mountain in fifty minutes by pony, express. The express was started last Sunday by two young men of Palenville, who extend their early, Sunday paper delivery to the various other resorts in this end of the Catskill range. A large number of papers were quickly sold, but on the arrival of the regular New-York newspaper package at 11 o'clock, every paper it contained was disposed of at once and still some of the guests were unsupplied. The eclipse of the moon was closely observed here by several hundred guests who remained up for the purpose. A more favorable spot to see it could not be selected. The sky was clear as crystal. this end of the Catskill range. A large number of
